Dr. Johnson loves being a doctor and graduated at the top of the class in medical school since medical school. Dr. Johnson works hard to keep up on all the advances in medicine and to keep the team up to date as well. Then one day Dr. Johnson learned about the New York State Department of Health AIDS Institute Clinical Education Initiative and how they help doctors, pharmacist, nurses and physician assistants. Everyday CEI is the one stop shop for information on HIV AIDS sexually transmitted diseases hepatitis C and opioid tobacco and alcohol abuse. And it's free. Funded by the AIDS Institute. Dr. Johnson's staff can access free live training webinars and online continuing medical education. Dr. Johnson has come to rely on the virtual patient app that provides an interactive step by step diagram that provides the latest recommended treatment guidelines. And if Dr. Johnson needs immediate information a medical specialist is only a phone call away.

The CEI Centers of Excellence make it easy for Dr. Johnson to stay up to date on cutting edge treatment and information. Dr. Johnson loves being a doctor and can spend more time on healing and helping patients discover all the ways that the Clinical Education Initiative can help you and your team to deliver the best care possible.
