CLINICAL EDUCATION INITIATIVE: ABOUT CEI

[video transcript]

00:01

Dr. Johnson loves being a doctor and is eager to learn more to better serve and provide quality care for his patients. Dr. Johnson works hard to keep an eye on all the advances in medicine and to keep the team up to date as well. Then one day, Dr. Johnson learned about the New York State Department of Health AIDS Institute Clinical Education Initiative and how they help clinicians every day. CEI is the one stop shop for information on HIV, sexually transmitted infections, Hepatitis C, and Drug User Health and it's free. Funded by the AIDS Institute. Dr. Johnson staff can access free live trainings, webinars and online continuing medical education. And if Dr. Johnson needs immediate information, a medical specialist is only a phone call away. The CEI Centers of Excellence make it easy for Dr. Johnson to stay up to date on cutting edge treatment and information. CEI makes available a wide range of tools and resources to build provider capacity, such as the New York State AIDS Institute clinical guidelines, so Dr. Johnson can spend more time treating patients. Discover all the ways Clinical Education Initiative can help you and your team to deliver the best care possible.
